UCSF’s last Long Range Development Plan (LRDP), adopted in 1996, was designed to guide the university’s physical development through 2012. It was this LRDP that identified UCSF’s need for a major new campus site, and paved the way for UCSF Mission Bay. UCSF is now embarking on its next LRDP, which has an expected planning horizon of about 15 years.

The purpose of the LRDP community participation process is to ensure maximum public involvement in this important planning process, with a focus on neighborhoods in proximity to UCSF’s main sites. The process will again, as with the 1996 LRDP, lay a foundation of communication that ensures that all parties have input into the plan and receive the information they need about it. With an open and interactive process — identifying the best ideas and ensuring that all points of view are considered—the LRDP can integrate the needs of UCSF with those of our diverse San Francisco community.

Both workshops, the first in a series, will provide an overview of the LRDP process, seek feedback on draft planning principles, and touch on every major campus site. However, the October 10 workshop will then focus on Parnassus campus, and the October 25 workshop will focus on Mission Bay campus.

We will be conducting community workshops for other campus sites in 2013.

If you have neighbors who would also like to be on our email notification list, please have them send an email to community@cgr.ucsf.edu, specifying the campus site(s) of interest: Parnassus, Mission Bay, Laurel Heights, Mount Zion, San Francisco General Hospital.

Sincerely,

BB
