UCSF’s last Long Range Development Plan (LRDP), created in 1996, was designed to guide the university’s physical development through 2012. Now UCSF continues its work on the next LRDP, which has an expected planning horizon through 2035. Community involvement is a key facet of this planning process.

This Community Workshop follows the two previous workshops, also held on the Parnassus campus, on October 10, 2012, and January 28, 2013.

Presentations & summaries can be found at: www.ucsf.edu/LRDP

Agenda for this meeting will include UCSF’s responses to the community feedback regarding the proposed physical plan and transportation analysis presented at the last workshop.
