

Letter from the Chancellor

Members of the Campus Community:

As members of the University of California, San Francisco (UCSF) community, we all share the responsibility to conduct our professional and personal practices with integrity and compassion. This responsibility is the foundation for the UCSF Campus Code of Conduct. There is perhaps no more important obligation that you and I have than to uphold the principles and standards included in this Code. UCSF is a prominent public institution and a major employer in San Francisco. To maintain our status as a leader in the community and to earn the trust and respect we each desire, we must aspire to the highest standards of human conduct. We must never lose sight of our ultimate goal of pursuing knowledge in order to cure, alleviate, or prevent illness. I am counting on everyone to reach our goal with pride in each other and our work.

Principles of Community

The San Francisco campus of the University of California is dedicated to learning and teaching in the health sciences. As a graduate and professional school campus, UCSF serves society through four primary missions: teaching, research, patient care and public service. Faculty, staff and students on the UCSF campus are a composite of many races, creeds and social affiliations. To achieve campus goals, individuals must work collaboratively with mutual respect and with forbearance.

Several principles of community life are established to guide individual and group actions on the campus. Adherence to these principles is essential to ensure the integrity of the University and to achieve campus goals. UCSF faculty, staff and students are asked to acknowledge and practice these basic principles of community life:

- We affirm that members of the campus community are valued for their individual qualities, and members are encouraged to apply their unique talents in creative and collaborative work.
- We recognize, value and affirm that social diversity contributes richness to the University community and enhances the quality of campus life for individuals and groups. We take pride in our various achievements, and celebrate our differences.

- We affirm the right of freedom of expression within the UCSF community and also affirm commitment to the highest standards of civility and decency toward all persons.
- We are committed to creating and maintaining a community where all persons who participate in University activities can work together in an atmosphere free from all forms of abusive or demeaning communication.
- We affirm the individual right of public expression within the bounds of courtesy, sensitivity and respect.
- We recognize the right of every individual to think and speak as dictated by personal belief, to express individual ideas and to state differences with other points of view, limited only by University requirements regarding time, place and manner.
- We reject acts of discrimination, including those based on race, ethnicity, gender, age, disability, sexual orientation and religious or political beliefs.
- We recognize that UCSF is devoted to public service, and encourage members of the campus community to participate in public service activities in their own communities and recognize their public service efforts in off-campus community settings.
- We affirm that each member of the campus community is expected to work in accord with these principles and to make individual efforts to enhance the quality of campus life for all.

Addressing Issues and Concerns

Employees are encouraged to discuss questions or concerns with their immediate supervisor. If this is not practical or issues or conflicts arise that cannot be resolved between the individual and the immediate supervisor, the individual should raise the concerns through the department administrative or academic hierarchy. This may include the next level of manager, the department head, and the office of the dean or vice chancellor where the unit reports. Faculty with concerns or questions should discuss them with the department chair. MSOs and department chairs encountering ethical conflicts involving any campus member are expected to work through the associate dean of the school or the office of the vice chancellor to which they report. Students with questions or concerns should speak with their faculty of record or advisor, contact the student affairs office in their school, contact the Office of Student Life, or the Graduate Division for assistance. Postdoctoral scholars should address questions to their faculty Principal Investigator/mentor or the Graduate Division.

Whistleblower Policy

Under University policy, individuals are encouraged to use the University Whistleblower Policy if they have a good faith belief that an activity occurred or is continuing to occur that is not in compliance with federal or state law or University policy. Such individuals are protected from retaliation for making such a "protected disclosure." A "protected disclosure" may be made to the campus Whistleblower Coordinator, Clinical Compliance Officer, or any campus administrator, director, manager or supervisor. This policy may be found on the campus website at:

Faculty Misconduct

Academic Personnel Manual (APM) Section 015—The Faculty Code of Conduct establishes standards of professional conduct and includes listings of faculty responsibilities, ethical principles and types of unacceptable behavior. Faculty Misconduct occurs when there is a violation of the Faculty Code of Conduct as defined in APM 015 Part II—Professional Responsibilities, Ethical Principles, and Unacceptable Faculty Conduct. Concerns about possible faculty misconduct should be reported to the responsible Academic Vice/Associate Dean or the Vice Provost—Academic Affairs.

Research Misconduct

The campus adheres to the Department of Health and Human Services definition of Research Misconduct as follows: "fabrication, falsification, or plagiarism in proposing, performing, or reviewing research, or in reporting research results." Research misconduct does not include honest error or differences of opinion. Concerns about possible research misconduct should be reported to the UCSF Research Integrity Officer, Vice Provost Sally J. Marshall. Individuals should not undertake investigations of suspected research misconduct on their own. The Clinical Enterprise

The Mission of the UCSF Medical Center is "Caring, Healing, Teaching and Discovering" and its Vision is "to be the best provider of health care services, the best place to work and the best environment for teaching and research."
