Essential news for the UCSF community. For more, visit pulse.ucsf.edu »

White Wash: Biomedical Research Doesn't Reflect U.S. Diversity

New Clinical Trial Tool Launches to Connect Researchers, Participants

Popular Antibiotic Blocks Zika Transmission to Fetal Brain Tissue

At Breakthrough Prize Symposium, Yamanaka Talks Driver of His Work

A Few Billionaires Are Turning Medical Philanthropy on Its Head

Bloomberg | UCSF benefactors Sean Parker, Joan and Sanford Weill, and Priscilla Chan and Mark Zuckerberg are part of a trend of philanthropists who have established unconventional arrangements for investing in health innovation.

Anti-Smoking Researchers Target Hipsters. And Yes, They Know Who You Are.

KGO | Pamela Ling, MD, MPH, of the Center for Tobacco Control Research and Education, has been working with a marketing agency to establish an anti-smoking brand called “Commune,” specifically targeting the nation’s ample supply of hipsters.

UCSF Leadership Update: Chancellor Sam Hawgood has established new chapters for his executive leadership groups and formed two new advisory committees - Space and Budget & Investment. Learn more about these leadership updates »

Affordable Housing Units: A new housing complex adjacent to UCSF’s Mission Bay Campus is accepting applications for 50 affordable housing units. Employees of local public universities and health care institutions in San Francisco, including UCSF, who have eligible family incomes will receive preference for the units. Learn more about the housing »

UCSF Sustainability Annual Report: Sustainability leadership, actions to save water and reduce toxins are all key achievements at UCSF and UCSF Health that are highlighted in 2016. Read the Sustainability Report »

Upcoming Events

UCSF Sports Basement Shopping Spree
Dec. 8 | 1590 Bryant St.

Staff Appreciation Events
Dec. 9-9 | Mount Zion and Mission Bay

The Genetics of Personality & Depression
Dec. 14 | Parnassus

More upcoming events...